Curriculum Principles

By the end of Y6, a student of English at Dixons Manningham Academy will:

Be confident and proficient speakers and listeners, possessing an extensive receptive and expressive vocabulary as the ability to communicate – articulating and comprehending effectively – is fundamental to life chances and underpins reading and writing development.

Read fluently and appreciate a wide variety of high-quality literature and non-fiction. Students will be well-versed in a range of fictional forms such as poetry, plays, novels and short stories; non-fictional forms studied will include, for example, letters, speeches, diaries, essays and articles.

Know how to be able to craft their writing to match the conventions of a wide variety of forms. Students will be able to make judicious choices regarding voice, language, structure and grammar to manipulate readers in a variety of contexts.

Reading is our main focus, in order to access education students need to be highly competent readers as such our curriculum is based on the following:

Reception begin their journey to fluency by taking part in daily language for learning sessions, following the NIFDI curriculum, this progresses through to phonics at the end of cycle 1.

KS1 students build on language for learning whilst also taking part in daily reading mastery sessions, following the NIFDI curriculum.

1:1 daily reading is undertaken from the end of Reception to the end of Y2 for all students. From Y3-6 all students below age related expectations are listened to read daily, whilst everyone else is heard read twice a week

Throughout KS2, students have daily whole class reading sessions that are built on the principals of reciprocal reading, with interweaving texts to widen their understanding of the themes within a text.

At KS2, students who struggle with fluency access intervention reading lessons based on a DI program (Corrective Reading) until their fluency is embedded sufficiently that they can access whole class reading sessions.

Securing proficiency in writing:

Within each scheme of work, key knowledge is taught and re-visited on a regular basis through interleaved 'Do Now' quizzes and repetition of key skills using knowledge from "knowledge organisers".

Writing is built around the idea of longer blocks focusing on fewer things, based on 4 Writing Purposes. Rather than trying to teach pupils many text types, it is better to focus on what those types have in common. Importantly, by the end of KS2 pupils recognise the multi-text type opportunities, eg. newspaper articles could fall under any or all of the 4 headings: they are not a distinct type in themselves.

Grammar and vocabulary are interweaved into lessons so that they are contextual in order to aide metacognition.

We utilise the principles of Talk for Writing in order to build confidence and provide a scaffold for writing examples. This uses the principles of imitation, innovation and invention.

Student targets are based on personal small step improvements needed to improve the structure, composition or mechanical aspects of writing, rather than on objectives.

The English curriculum will address social disadvantage by addressing gaps in students' knowledge and skills:

By providing opportunities for all students to appreciate a very broad variety of texts written in a range of contexts with situated purposes, we intend to increase the cultural capital of all students allowing them to access concepts and moral standpoints at least as well as their more advantaged peers.

By providing more bespoke interventions based on direct instruction for lowest ability learners, and those who are new to English, focusing on closing gaps in the pre-requisite knowledge students require swiftly and responsively in to access the wider curriculum.

We fully believe English can contribute to the personal development of students at DMN:

By selecting a wide variety of texts which provide contrasting viewpoints regarding a range of moral issues, the English curriculum provides a wealth of opportunities for students' moral development through understanding perspectives that differ from those shared by their own communities; thus, promoting cohesion and empathy and a deeper understanding of different cultures.

Through selecting a variety of non-fiction texts in all year groups, ranging from topics such as social media use and healthy eating to sustainability and environmental issues, cultural capital is increased.

Our belief is that homework should be interleaved-revision of powerful knowledge that has been modelled and taught in lessons. This knowledge from "knowledge organisers" is recalled and applied through a range of low-stakes quizzing and practice.
